‘What does it mean?’ has been produced by Bupa. It has been written with the advice of cancer specialists, healthcare professionals and families affected by cancer.

We hope you find it useful.

Check out these other booklets in the “I know someone with cancer” series:

You can also find electronic versions of these booklets online at bupa.co.uk/iknowsomeonewithcancer

You’ve probably been given this booklet because someone you know has cancer.

Inside, we’ll help to explain what cancer is and take a look at the different ways it might be affecting you and your family.

There’s lots of useful info, handy tips and ideas for ways you could help your family - and yourself.

You can also read the stories of other kids who know someone with cancer.

We hope it helps you out. Take a look inside...

---

Dr Luke answers your questions

... for dealing with feelings

Draw it out

Write and draw stuff here

What’s happening?

How things may change at home

Make a cuppa card!

Cheer someone up with a card

---

What it all about?

Find out what cancer cells are and look up other words from this booklet in our glossary

Who’s who?

Meet some doctors

---

What does it mean? is published on behalf of Bupa by John Brown, 136-142 Bramley Road, London W10 6SR

info@johnbrownmedia.com

www.johnbrownmedia.com

T: +44 (0)20 7565 3000

Photo credits: p4-5 iStockphoto, Getty; p6-7 iStockphoto, Getty; p8-9 iStockphoto, Getty; p10-11 Thinkstock; p12-13 Thinkstock; p14-15 Getty; Stockphoto Illustrator Shaw Nielsen.

The health information in this booklet does not replace the need for personal advice from a qualified health professional. Bupa health insurance is provided by Bupa Insurance Limited. Registered in England and Wales No. 3956433. Bupa Insurance Limited is authorised by the Prudential Regulation Authority and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority and the Prudential Regulation Authority. Arranged and administered by Bupa Insurance Services Limited, which is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority. Registered in England and Wales No. 3829851. Registered office: 1 Angel Court, London EC2R 7HU.

---

Hi! My name’s Izzy. And that’s my friend Jake over there.

Hello

Ask Doc

Who’s who?

Draw it out

10 ideas...

What’s it all about?

Make a cuppa card!

What’s happening?

Who’s who?

Draw it out

10 ideas...

Ask Doc

What’s happening?

Make a cuppa card!

---

Hello

You’ve probably been given this booklet because someone you know has cancer.

Inside, we’ll help to explain what cancer is and take a look at the different ways it might be affecting you and your family.

There’s lots of useful info, handy tips and ideas for ways you could help your family - and yourself.

You can also read the stories of other kids who know someone with cancer.

We hope it helps you out. Take a look inside...

---

Hi! My name’s Izzy. And that’s my friend Jake over there.

Hello

Ask Doc

Who’s who?

Draw it out

10 ideas...

What’s it all about?

Make a cuppa card!

What’s happening?

Who’s who?

Draw it out

10 ideas...

Ask Doc

What’s happening?

Make a cuppa card!

---

Hello

You’ve probably been given this booklet because someone you know has cancer.

Inside, we’ll help to explain what cancer is and take a look at the different ways it might be affecting you and your family.

There’s lots of useful info, handy tips and ideas for ways you could help your family - and yourself.

You can also read the stories of other kids who know someone with cancer.

We hope it helps you out. Take a look inside...

---

Hi! My name’s Izzy. And that’s my friend Jake over there.
What is cancer?

It's an illness where cells grow too fast and cause an unwanted lump. Doctors usually need to remove this lump during an operation, and then afterwards the person will take special medicine to help make sure it doesn't come back.

Do I have it too?

It doesn't mean you have cancer if someone you're related to has it. Most cancers don't run in the family so you don't need to worry.

Was it my fault?

No way! No one knows why some people get cancer, but it certainly won't be anything you have made happen.

Will they have to go to hospital?

They might need to visit the hospital for tests or treatment or they might need to stay in hospital for a little while. They will do what they can to sort out who will take over while they are feeling unwell.

Shall I tell my friends?

It's up to you. Some people think talking to friends can help stop them worrying, but if you'd rather keep it to yourself, that's fine too.

Can I catch it?

No. You don't need to worry about catching it like a cold or chickenpox, so you can still cuddle up as much as you want.

When people found out my mum had cancer, they told me about other people who’d had it and had died. That was pretty scary. But then my mum told me that everyone's cancer is different and that lots of people do get better again.

Here are some people who could help to answer your questions:

- The person who has cancer
  They may already know lots about their illness.

- Another adult in your family
  They could ask the person with cancer for you if you don't want to.

- ChildLine
  You can talk to ChildLine online or by phone on 0800 1111 whenever you need to. Whatever your worry, it's better out than in.

www.childline.org.uk

ChildLine is a service provided by the NSPCC. Registered charity numbers 216401 and SC037717.

Don't worry if you can't think of any questions right now!
10 IDEAS for dealing with feelings

Finding out someone you know has cancer can make you have all kinds of different feelings, from sad to mad. Here are 10 things that might help.

1. Body scrunch
   If you’re feeling worried or having trouble getting off to sleep, this may help you to chill out...
   - Slowly take a big deep breath in through your nose and out through your mouth.
   - Squeeze every part of your body super tight as you breathe in again. Lift your shoulders to your ears, scrunch up your face, make tight fists, curl up your toes, and clench your tummy and bottom. SQUEEEEEZE!

2. Carry on!
   It’s totally fine to keep doing and enjoying many of the things you normally do. So whether it’s going to the park or playing on the Nintendo – carry on!

3. Brain power
   Does your mind keep wandering? Try some puzzles like this one to give your brain something to concentrate on.
   - You can find more fun puzzles in the Activity book of this series.

4. It’s good to talk
   We usually worry less if we share our feelings, so try talking to your friends, relatives, or anyone you think will be kind about what’s going on.

5. Dear diary
   If you don’t feel like talking to anyone and want a bit of time on your own, that’s OK too. Try writing things down or drawing pictures to express how you feel.

6. Pillow punch
   Sometimes, what’s going on can make you frustrated. You might even get mad with people in your family! Here are some ways to let out your angry feelings without being mean to anyone else.
   - Punch a pillow
   - Screw up old newspapers
   - Squish up a big lump of Plasticine

7. TV time
   Just spending some time with the person who is poorly will show that you care and stop you feeling like you can’t help. Tell them about what you’ve been up to, or watch some TV together.

8. Move it, move it!
   If you feel stressed out, use up some energy to make you feel good again. Try one of these.
   - Do some star jumps
   - Have a run around in the garden or park
   - Play a ball game like footy or catch

9. Four-in-a-row
   Games can take your mind off other things. Play this with someone... Use a different coloured pen each and take it in turns to colour in a circle below. The first to get four in a row wins!

10. Listen up!
    Listening to music can help you if you’re feeling upset. What are your favourite songs? Singing along to them can make you feel better too. All together now: “La-la-LAAAAAAA!”

Answer no.3: The orange circles are the same size as each other!
Let’s take a closer look at how cancer might affect you and your family...

Grumpy grown-ups?

The person you know with cancer may not seem their usual self at the moment. They might snap at you, be more tired and fed up, or look sad or worried sometimes. Or maybe they haven’t been able to spend much time with you lately.

People you know apart from the person with cancer may act differently too and not be sure what to say, but this isn’t your fault!

How to react

There’s no right or wrong way to react when you find out someone you know has cancer. You might feel shocked at first. You could also feel sad, scared or angry – or you might just feel like you want to carry on as normal.

All of these are completely OK.

Life at home

Life at home or the usual things you do after school might change when someone you know has cancer. Have any of these things been happening?

- I’ve had to do some extra chores at home.
- Family and friends are coming round to the house more often.
- My mum/dad isn’t at work as much as they were before.

- My friends’ parents give me lifts to places.
- My mum/dad is on the phone a lot more.

These changes aren’t all bad, but they may make you feel anxious and uncertain for a while. If any of the changes are really bothering you, write them down and chat with an adult about them.

3 good things

When things are all jumbled up at home, see if you can think of three good things that have happened in your day. This will help you focus on all the great things that are still going on in your life.

When you're done...

- You don’t have to think of big things to write. Is there anything Jake’s thinking about that makes you happy, too?
- The person you know with cancer may not seem their usual self at the moment. They might snap at you, be more tired and fed up, or look sad or worried sometimes. Or maybe they haven’t been able to spend much time with you lately.
- People you know apart from the person with cancer may act differently too and not be sure what to say, but this isn’t your fault!
- There’s no right or wrong way to react when you find out someone you know has cancer. You might feel shocked at first. You could also feel sad, scared or angry – or you might just feel like you want to carry on as normal.

All of these are completely OK.
Make a CUPPA CARD!

If you want to give a get well card, here’s an idea for one you could make.

What you need

- A4 card
- Pen
- Scissors
- Glue
- Paper
- Tea bag

1. Fold the card in half widthways. Draw a cup with its side touching the card’s folded edge like the one in the picture above.

2. Cut out the cup shape – make sure you leave the folded edge uncut! Carefully cut around the handle – you could ask an adult to help.

3. Cut a pocket for the tea bag out of some paper slightly smaller than the card cup. Glue along its curved edge and stick it to the inside of the card.

4. Pop a tea bag (or a hot chocolate sachet) in the pocket and write a message inside the card. After you’ve given your cuppa card to the person, ask if they’d like a cuppa!

Quick cheer-ups

- Watch a movie together.
- Write nice messages on sticky notes and leave them around the house.
- Fix them a drink or fetch them a snack!
- Give them a great big bear hug!
- Do a crossword together – you could read out the clues!

WHO’S WHO?

Let’s find out about some of the doctors who are taking care of the person you know with cancer.

GP

Your local family doctor. GP stands for ‘general practitioner’.

“As a GP, I’m usually the first doctor people see if they have any health worries. I’m trained to look out for signs of cancer, and if I think anything is unusual I’ll send someone to see a cancer specialist.”

Cancer specialist

A doctor who is an expert on cancer. They can do different tests to work out if someone has cancer, which type of cancer it is, and the very best way to treat it.

Consultant

The senior doctor in charge of looking after a cancer patient. They look carefully at test results and then plan the best treatment. They will be in charge of the overall care of the person who is poorly and will work with a team of experts to do this.
Doodling and writing can be good ways of giving your head time out if it’s been filled with lots of new information. Have a go here.

Scribble pad You could use these spaces to draw anything you want, or try one of these ideas...

- I did this picture of me!
- Sketch one of your favourite things
- Make a picture out of this scribble
- Doodle: Use the grid lines to draw lots of doodles.
- Draw a picture of yourself

Fill-in faces

We can feel lots of different things in just one day. How do you think the little faces below are feeling? Look at the words on the right for ideas.

- I’m feeling pretty cool today!

Now have a go at drawing your own expressions here – it could be how you’re feeling today or just some silly faces.

Silly certificates! Add the names of friends or family members to these special awards.

- FUNNIEST PERSON I KNOW
- CLEVEREST PERSON IN THE WHOLE WORLD
- MESSIEST PERSON IN THE HOUSE

Add the names of friends or family members to these special awards.
Our bodies are made up of millions of tiny building blocks called cells. They all have a different job to do to make our bodies work and to keep us healthy.

Find out about cells to help you understand what’s going on.

What are cells?
Our bodies are made up of millions of tiny building blocks called cells. They all have a different job to do to make our bodies work and to keep us healthy.

What are cancer cells?
Cells are usually great at looking after themselves. But when someone has cancer, some of the cells start to grow in an unusual way. They can make a lump called a tumour.

Because these cancer cells grow faster than healthy cells, if they aren’t treated they can spread to other parts of the body. That’s why people with cancer need to have some treatment.

Doctors may be able to remove a tumour from the body in an operation. Or they can give different types of medicine which may make it shrink or go away.

When Dad was off work while he was having his treatment for cancer, we played on the Wii and watched some good TV together. Then when he was feeling better we went on holiday to Dorset.

What do you mean? - Scan - An image of the inside of the body made by a special computer.
SURGERY - When a doctor carefully works on a person’s body so they can fix something inside or remove something, like a tumour.
SYMPTOMS - Changes in a person’s body or the way they feel that suggest they may be poorly.
TESTS - These are ways to work out whether someone is ill or not. Different types of test are a biopsy, a blood test and a scan.
TREATMENT - Medical care given to someone who is ill. For someone with cancer, the three most common treatments are surgery, radiotherapy and chemotherapy.
TUMOUR - A growth or lump in the body. Not all tumours are cancerous. A benign tumour isn’t cancer. A malignant tumour is cancer.

GLOSSARY
A handy list of words you might have heard or read.

BIOPSY - (by-op-see) Removing a few tissue cells from the body to test them.
BLOOD TEST - Taking a small sample of blood and examining it.
CHEMOTHERAPY - (key-mo-therapy) Medicine used to destroy cancer cells.
DIAGNOSIS - (dye-ag-no-sis) When doctors have worked out exactly what is wrong with a patient, and can give the illness a name.
ONCOLOGIST - (on-kol-oh-jist) Another name for a doctor who is a cancer specialist.
ONCOLOGY - (on-kol-oh-jee) The study or treatment of cancer.
OPERATION - When a doctor does surgery.
PATIENT - A name for someone who is poorly and is being looked after by doctors and nurses.
RADIOThERAPY - A cancer treatment using powerful X-rays.
REFER - When a doctor sends a patient to a different doctor who knows more about the symptoms or illness they have. For example, a family doctor (GP) can refer a patient to a cancer specialist.

Are there any other strange words you’ve heard? Jot them down here and ask an adult what they mean.